

SCARIER

If you are a fan of scary movies, the haunted houses that creep from the crypt across the country every Fall are just like being there. With many ghastly personalities, each tries to provide the ultimate in terror for those brave enough to enter their creaky gates.

Your undead adventure begins with a backstory. Something terrible has happened and you are about to experience the repercussions. A lot of thought goes into designing layouts that will promote maximum horror for willing victims, so unless specifically stated, they are not usually a place you want to take young kids.

Most haunted houses are open on weekends between the last two weeks of September and the end of October. Check websites or social media for exact hours. Ticket prices typically range between $20 - $35 per person. Many offer VIP tickets or additional attractions for an extra charge. VIP tickets skip the wait to get in. 🐾

INSIDER TIPS & TRICKS

Special thanks to Ed Benci

1. Look for extras such as farm markets, corn mazes, or special Fall festivals.
2. Wait times to enter a venue can be long, especially closer to Halloween. Be sure to dress for the weather.
3. There may be lots of walking, so wear comfortable shoes, especially for outdoor venues.
4. Wear clothes you don't mind getting dirty.
5. If you plan to do multiple venues in one evening, the VIP pass is worth the extra cost.
6. The middle of a small group is either the best or the worst place to be. It depends on your personal perspective.
7. Some venues offer special full-contact nights or flashlight only blackout nights. Some love this, some don't. Check the website and plan ahead!
